"Village" Housing Concept Backed—Procedure Remains in Doubt

"But how is it going to be accomplished?"

That's the chief question raised at the half-dozen public discussions held so far on the new "village" housing proposals delineated in great detail last month by the housing sub-committee of the Princeton Regional Planning Board.

The final public gathering will be held this Saturday (10 a.m.) at the First Baptist Church, John and Green Streets. Everyone is invited to come and ask questions.

At the meeting, Planning Board members will explain the village plan. Basically, it suggests that by 1990, Princeton ideally should be a community of villages, each holding about 1,600 to 4,000 people, each with small stores, a school, a community center and a mixture of high, middle and low-income homes.

Perhaps because it's a 20-year plan, and because plans and proposals, especially in Princeton, are notoriously slow to become reality, the six public hearings so far have attracted only about 200 people. The Planning Board has written to 99 organizations, inviting representatives to come, and offering special meetings if it isn't possible to send anybody. So far, only two groups have replied to that invitation: the real estate agents and the lawyers.

Developers and real estate agents have, in fact, paid attention to the housing proposals and have been asking questions at meetings. Benedict Yedlin, the developer who may be constructing public housing on Mt. Lucas Road; real estate agents Charles Freericks, Ridgely Cook of Abbott and Cook, and T. S. Peyton of Peyton Callaway; William Brower, a Mt. Lucas Road resident who is a leader in opposing Mr. Yedlin's public housing; George Cook, Karl Pettit and J. Dudley Clark, owners of land which might be suitable for development into villages — all have attended the informal Planning Board presentations.

It is reported that one real-estate broker wrote the Planning Board to say "a great start" has been made, and a large land-owner has also commended the board, and offered his help.

At the six public meetings, people generally have agreed with the approach and with the village concept, but they have been very skeptical about how it can be done. Audiences, and board members themselves, want answers to these questions:

Is it financially possible for a developer, in Princeton, to provide the kind of high-middle-low-income mix the planners want in each village?

How do you keep this mix, once you achieve it? Without a government subsidy, how can you make sure privately-owned housing doesn't increase both in purchase price and in rentals, as turnover occurs?

How can municipal government change the system so the owner of an older house won't be penalized by increased taxes when he improves his home?

"We've got to figure out the

Split-Vote Approval for Petrillo as PHS Head

An unexpected, almost melodramatic statement from school board member George Fitzgerald Tuesday night nearly shut the door of the Princeton High School principal's office on George Petrillo.

But Mr. Petrillo squeaked through anyway, and by a 5-4 vote, was appointed principal. He succeeds Dr. Patricia Wertheimer.

By a 7-2 vote, Virginia Euell was appointed principal of the Middle School. She succeeds Thornton Grove.

It was known early Tuesday that a majority of the board would approve Mr. Petrillo in the post, and Superintendent Philip E. McPherson so informed the press. However, it was not expected that the majority would be so close, and as the parliamentary machinery for the vote was being set up, Mr. Fitzgerald made his announcement:

"The board received information late Monday that has raised further questions about Mr. Petrillo," he declared. "It would be precipitous to vote now, in light of this information, and I move we table the decision." He declined to say publicly what the information was.

He was voted down, joined only by Eric Craig and Judy Getis. Joan Doig abstained. After the vote, President Hannah Fox took the board out for a five-minute recess.

Clarification Sought. The five minutes stretched to almost half an hour. During the interval, Mr. Petrillo told the press he wanted to meet with reporters and with Mr. Fitzgerald to find out "what the charges are."

"A cloud has been raised that makes me suspect," he said. "I haven't the slightest idea what these charges are."

When the board returned, members voted on Mr. Petrillo's appointment without further comment. His supporters were Mrs. Fox, Philip Cruickshank, William Marvel, Gail Pietrinferno and Winthrop Pike. Eric Craig, Joan Doig, Judy Getis and Mr. Fitzgerald voted against him.

Voting "yes" for Miss Euell were Mr. Craig, Mrs. Doig, Mr. Fitzgerald, Mrs. Fox, Mrs. Getis, Mr. Marvel and Mrs. Pietrinferno. Mr. Cruickshank and Mr. Pike were opposed.

The Euell appointment is only for one year, although it is not an "acting principal" appointment. The board directed Dr. McPherson to start looking for a permanent principal next year, and made it clear that Miss Euell herself can apply. Board members said Mr. Grove's sudden resignation had left little time for a wide search. The vote to hunt for a permanent principal was 8-1, with Mr. Craig voting "no."

After the meeting, the board took Mr. Petrillo into executive session, presumably to lay their new information before him. He told reporters he might have a statement later in the week.

"Trade-off" Appointments. In the Princeton community, the Petrillo-Euell appointments were widely regarded as a trade-off. It is known that Mr. Petrillo, guidance counselor at the high school, does not have the support of many residents of the black community. The board's only black member, Mr. Craig, voted against him.

Miss Euell, who is black, has many white opponents. Observers have been suggesting that the two appointments, far from making everybody happy, will only polarize the school community. Principals chosen from outside the system, it is said, might have helped ease tensions.

In another matter, Board opposition caused Mr. Fitzgerald to withdraw a motion prohibiting any school from having more than 75 percent of its staff on tenure. Mrs. Doig protested that a "reasoned, informed vote" was not possible on such short notice. Mr. Fitzgerald said he feared postponement would lead to even more postponement, but she assured him the board would not let that happen.

USE OF SQUARE DEBATED

At Council Meeting Borough Council Tuesday night continued to consider possible new uses for Palmer Square, in the wake of its decision to abandon far ahead of schedule the temporary closing of the street to traffic.

Council also weighed the possible advantages and disadvantages of opening agenda meetings and working sessions to the press and the public.

The first consideration was purely a matter of self-scrutiny on the part of Council, which wanted to show, in Councilmember Barbara Sigmond's words, that ideas for innovative uses for Palmer Square are "diminished but not defeated." Discussion of opening may closed sessions was the result only of catching questions from the floor by a persistent resident.

Council voted down the ordinances that had been implemented to make Palmer

Square a pedestrian mall, and rescinded the temporary parking regulations that had been enacted. But it also heard that requests had been made to the state to outlaw left turns into and out of the Square.

Mrs. Sigmond announced the opening of a "summer in the square" program, which will attempt to bring people together in the existing pedestrian area of the Square for informal entertainment and cultural events each Thursday night at 7.

Thrashing Out Decisions. David M. Hirsch, 297 Franklin Avenue, a manager of a building supplies firm in Princeton Township and a volunteer worker for the ACLU in Somerset and Middlesex counties, fired a salvo of questions, most about closed agenda meetings, at Mayor Robert W. Cawley.

Councilman Martin P. Lombardo and Robert S. Powell supported Mr. Hirsch's contention that the public would be better served if it knew fully in advance what would be on the agenda of a forthcoming meeting. "All of our recently tough decisions are thrashed out in agenda sessions," said Mr. Powell. "We are more to the point with each other. More information changes hands, and we ask more questions of the Borough staff."

Mayor Cawley concurred that "sometimes we don't provide all the background we could on the routine matters that we handle in the agenda meetings. Sometimes we expedite too much." But he remained generally opposed to Mr. Hirsch's proposal, as was Councilman Thomas J. Cawley. Mrs. Sigmond worried that an open agenda meeting might become a poor substitute for a good public hearing.

In other action, Council received authorization for installation of three new traffic lights, at the corners of North Harrison and Franklin, Harrison and Prospect, and Stockton and Elm.

Amendment Really a Mistake. Council also introduced the police salary ordinance, reflecting the results of earlier wage negotiations; authorized Corner House, the drug treatment center, to draw up a contract with the county that would pave the way for a $65,000 grant and nearly double the facility's budget; and introduced an ordinance to acquire land for 21 additional spaces in the Witherspoon Street parking yard near the Public Library.

That ordinance, which would authorize $5,000 for purchase of the land, also had an amendment introduced, which would authorize $4,400 for paving, installation of I-beam barriers, and repair and relocation of a fence on the existing boundary of the lot. The amendment, Mr. Powell said, was really correcting an error in calculation on the part of the Borough.

"It took us a while to figure it out in the closed meeting," Powell said. "When we presented it here it seemed routine. Nothing wrong was done, and the background may not be interesting to most people, but it was a significant mistake."

Housing Proposals

legal and economic mechanisms to make it all possible," conceded Golda Gottlieb, Planning Board member who is chairman of the housing sub-committee.

Richard May, the board's consultant, and William Miller, its attorney, have already started talking with specialists in urban economics on these complex subjects. Mr. May told those at the meetings that he can indeed obtain cost break-downs.

One speaker — Ridgely Cook, the real estate broker — has told the board to "Give us specifics: how can this be done? Show us costs."

Carl Lindbloom, who was on the old Township Planning Board, suggested that the planners clarify things by showing what would happen if the plan were implemented, and what would happen if it weren't.

Three Possibilities. To the question, "What will assure construction of low-middle housing?" the Planning Board's chairman, Hans K. Sander, has three possible answers.

This is a 20-year program. The Federal support programs that meant so much in the 1960s, may well come back in the 1980s. Also, a developer might say, in effect, "We'll buy 300 acres, assemble the package, build higher-income housing and sell off 25 acres or so," perhaps to an organization like Princeton Community Housing.

And thirdly, a large-scale developer able to build at least 200 units, could mix high-middle-low income in his package. He would build what Mr. Sander calls "more Spartan" units in the more modest ranges, with less elaborate electrical appliances, for example, and take off the profit cream with his high-cost units. Several developers in Maryland and the Washington, D.C. area are doing this now, Mr. Sander explains, and have actually talked with Princeton Regional Planning Board members.

No one, incidentally, asked how many affluent Princeton people, able to afford high-cost housing, would be willing to live in a mix with low, or even middle-income, families? Mr. Sander anticipates the question by suggesting that villages could be developed so that units — townhouses, garden apartments, single-family houses — would be clustered according to income.

Keep Princeton "Princeton." Planning Board members also feel reasonably sure they can keep the villages "for Princeton." A tenant or owner selection committee, they explain, could make sure that residents either live in Princeton, or work here and live elsewhere. Many people working here, board members say, earn less than $15,000 a year and cannot afford to live here.

"We're trying to restore a balance," is Mrs. Gottlieb's explanation.

Will the villages bring additional expensive school children? Planners hope and believe that court decisions against property taxes as the sole way to pay for schools, will have an effect. There is a "good chance," they say, that local taxes won't be affected, in the future, by kids moving into town.

All Planning Board members have been emphasizing the sense of "community" that would come from village life. Mr. Sander points out that kids in a village, could go to school without crossing a street that had a car on it.

"The village would have identity," he says. "It would be safe, liveable, with a mix of people, life and interests."

"Where Service Counts"

Plans Completed for Reunification of Two Presbyterian Churches

Two Presbyterian congregations that have worshipped for over a century at sites only a block apart and across the street from each other will resume life as a single church on Sunday, June 24.

First and St. Andrew's Presbyterian churches, descendants of the same original congregation dating back to the 17th century, will celebrate their reunification at an 11 a.m. service in Alexander Hall on the Princeton University campus. The church's new name will be Nassau Presbyterian Church.

Members will meet in their respective sanctuaries for the last time as individual congregations, and then leave their churches at 10:45 a.m. to form a banner-led procession into Alexander Hall.

Dr. Willard J. Heckel, immediate past moderator of the Presbyterian Church in the United States and a professor of law at Rutgers University, will deliver a sermon. Then a ceremony of constitution will make the two congregations one.

In 1847 differences within the First Presbyterian Church led to the departure of a segment of the congregation and the formation of Second Church, more recently called St. Andrew's. The buildings front on opposite sides of Nassau Street.

Divisions Overcome. Having the union as a positive step was Dr. Eugene Carson Blake, a leading Protestant spokesman for Christian union on all levels, who was in town for reunion weekend at Princeton University with the Class of 1928.

The former general secretary of the World Council of Churches, acquainted with the merging congregations since his student days at the University and Princeton Theological Seminary, said that "each can be proud of much of their separate and sometime antagonistic existences during the years." He predicted that "new history will be made as the divisions of their past histories are at last overcome."

Three unsuccessful attempts in 1896, 1905 and 1962, were made over the years to reunite the local Presbyterians. But last month the neighboring churches, simultaneously without senior ministers for the first time in 68 years, voted overwhelmingly to combine.

The St. Andrew's pulpit has been vacant since the sudden death of the Reverend F. Hugh Liffiton in March, 1972. First Church lost its senior minister last fall, when Dr. Donald M. Meisel was called to Westminster Presbyterian Church in Minneapolis.

Another Spin-Off Declines. The Witherspoon Street Presbyterian Church, also located in Princeton, was invited to enter the merger but declined. This congregation, now interracial, is another spin-off of the original 17th-century church, established a year before Second Church at the request of black members.

A leading figure in one fruitless merger effort was Woodrow Wilson, then President of Princeton University and a member of Second Church, who led the 1905 drive toward reconciliation. When it was defeated, he made his own gesture toward union by leaving to join the congregation down the street. More than 30 fellow members went with him.

Today a pew marked with Wilson's name may be found in each of the sanctuaries.

In First Church the pew of another U.S. president, Grover Cleveland, also bears an inscribed plate.

The country's most prominent Woodrow Wilson scholar, Dr. Arthur S. Link, was a member of the committee drafting the merger contract which finally consolidates the two groups of worshippers.

Pooling Resources. In commenting on the significance of the union, Dr. Link said that the question of merger had been reopened at a "very strategic and important time." Churches such as First and St. Andrew's, "can conduct a proper ministry much better together than separately."

ly," the historian said, "by pooling financial strength and resources for a diversity in ministerial staff and the greater mobility of Christians for various tasks in society."

The minister emeritus of St. Andrew's, Dr. William L. Tucker, still a Princeton resident, called attention to "the fact that these two congregations have united without the spur of necessity on the part of the smaller and without the greed for growth on the part of the larger." Membership is about 1,750 at First Church and 550 at St. Andrew's.

Despite their continued separation, an increasing amount of cooperation has occurred among all three of the Presbyterian Churches in Princeton, such as the sharing of a street minister to youth and a minister of visitation. For years they have joined in summer services, using each of the sanctuaries in rotation. Plans are to use both of the present Nassau Street buildings in the program of the new congregation. The First Church structure dates from 1836 and that of St. Andrew's from 1808.

Fire and Skyrocket. Two previous First Church buildings were destroyed by fire, one when a holiday skyrocket landed on its roof. Expensive repairs were made to put the earliest building back in shape after it was occupied during the Revolutionary War, first by the soldiers of Cornwallis, then by those of Washington.

Presbyterians probably were settled in Princeton by the late 1600s, but they had no building of their own until 1764. When their own village was little more than a way stop of some three dozen houses, they had to travel several miles to the flanking communities of Lawrenceville and Kingston to attend services. Later, after the College of New Jersey moved to town, they were able to rent pews in Nassau Hall on campus and worship with faculty and students.

Notable preachers linked with the early development of Princeton Presbyterianism were Jonathan Edwards, Aaron Burr, the elder, and John Witherspoon, all serving as presidents of the college that was to become Princeton University. Witherspoon was the only clergyman to sign the

Protest over Schultz Degree Is Mild

"I wouldn't want to let those 650 down," George P. Shultz told the Daily Princetonian in an interview concerning the threatened protest if the Treasury Secretary came here to accept his honorary degree.

Mr. Shultz was referring to the 650 students who voted for awarding him the degree in an undergraduate referendum held earlier this spring. Another 1,023 voted that the University should not award him the degree.

Nonetheless, the degree was offered. Mr. Shultz appeared on the platform in front of Nassau Hall to accept it, and a protest was held.

But like most protests of late it was a small and quiet. Some walked out, others turned their backs as the citation was read, and still others distributed a leaflet that called Mr. Shultz a "principal architect of a budget that has given lowest priority to those who need it most, the poor of this country."

Seniors had been urged not to wear the traditional academic gowns and instead donate their rental fee to the East Trenton Community Center, an organization that will lose its funding under the new Nixon administration budget. A total of 149 seniors, out of 872 who marched in the academic procession, did not wear gowns.

How many of those were donating money to the Trenton group was not known. But the number of seniors not wearing gowns has decreased in recent years. In 1970, after the Cambodian and Kent State incidents, only about half the seniors wore gowns at graduation.

Declaration of Independence and another signer, Richard Stockton, was one of the lay founders of the parish, first known as the Presbyterian Church of Princeton.

In a volume of First Church history edited by him, Dr. Link wrote that "because of its close association with the College of New Jersey (it) was, from the beginning of regular worship in the sanctuary, the temporary church home of an astounding array of future leaders in all walks of life, but particularly in the ministry, politics and education."

1,433 DEGREES AWARDED

At 226th Princeton Commencement. With major discomfort caused by the sweltering noonday sun, but only minor uneasiness resulting from a small and quiet protest, Princeton University conferred a total of 1,433 bachelor and advanced degrees on Tuesday at its 226th Commencement on the front lawn of Nassau Hall.

The ceremonies were concluded in less than an hour and a half in 90-degree heat and high humidity. The protest, aimed at Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz, who was awarded an honorary degree consisted of no more than 50 seniors quietly leaving the proceedings when his name was called. Perhaps another 100, plus about a dozen adults in the audience, turned their backs as the citation was read.

Even the heat produced no serious problems. A first aid station set up in the first floor of Nassau Hall in the office of the Dean of the Faculty, reported no business for the day. University doctors reported that one young boy fell from the heat, and was taken to the Medical Center.

This year completed Princeton's fourth as a nontraditional institution, and some 165 young women were among the recipients of 960 bachelor degrees. The undergraduate degrees included 603 Bachelor of Arts and 106 Bachelors of Science in Engineering.

The 523 advanced degrees conferred included 216 Doctors of Philosophy, 181 Masters of Arts, 43 Masters in Public Affairs, 38 Masters of Science in Engineering, 17 Masters of Fine Arts, 12 Masters of Architecture, 9 Masters of Architecture and Urban Planning, and 7 Masters in Public Affairs and Urban Planning.

Honorary Degree Winners. In addition to the one awarded Mr. Shultz, six other honorary degrees were conferred. The Rev. Dr. John B. Coburn, University Orator and a charter trustee of the University, presented the candidates to President William G. Boen, who conferred the degrees.

Following is a complete list of the recipients, including excerpts from the citation read by Dr. Coburn:

Richard J. Sullivan, Doctor of Laws: Commissioner of Environmental Protection, State of New Jersey. Former Director of New Jersey's Division of Clean Air and Water. "He has brought determination and integrity to making this state a pioneer in the conservation of the environment that is the heritage of mankind."

The Tune for June

*Don't try to beat
A record beat*

Spring is still with us, but the thermometer's first move into the 80s beat the arrival of summer by more than a week. Readings matched those of 40 years ago, when the all-time daily June record of 93 was set.

For a time it will be "cooler," with the high remaining in the 80s, and a bit of a lull in the humidity. Generally, fair skies will dominate the picture, showers returning when the humidity moves upward again.

THEFT REPORT

Strawberry Hill Visited Again. Another theft at Strawberry Hill Farm and the larceny of items ranging from wheel covers to a $23,000 garbage truck were reported last week by police.

Russell L. Swanson of Strawberry Hill Farm, Pretty Brook Road, reported the theft last week of a $300 4-track tape recorder and three bottles of wine valued at $6 from his one-room apartment.

He told the investigating officer, Ptl. Anthony Gaylord, that he and his wife had left their apartment early in the morning without locking the door. When they returned at 7 that evening, he discovered the items missing from the living room area.

At 9 p.m. one evening last week, Princeton University police reported that a $23,000 garbage truck was missing from the MacMillan Building, the university maintenance building near Baker Rink. Guards at two exit booths stated that the truck had not passed through.

Proctor Kenneth Samuels called Township police the next day to report the truck had been located in the driveway of the Cap & Gown Club on Prospect Avenue with two flat tires.

Four wheel covers valued at $100 and a camera flash attachment were stolen during the weekend from a car parked the lot near the Playhouse. Borough police said that a window had been broken. They identified the owner only as a doctor from Illinois.

Jane Henderson Jr., 23 University Place, lost $40 when her wallet was taken from her car Monday between 10 and 11 a.m. She said the theft took place when her car was parked either in front of Davidson's Market or in the U-Store lot.

In another incident involving a car, Stanley Novall of the Graduate College told police that the tonneau cover of his 1967 MG convertible had been slashed Monday night between 10 and 11 while it was parked on Prospect. His loss: $60.

Two items were reported stolen from Tower Club, 13 Prospect: An electric typewriter valued at $150 and a 35mm Pentax camera worth $250 owned by John W. Calkins. Police said there were no signs of forced entry.

More In the Township. Leon Leake of Hibben Apartments, Faculty Road, reported the thief entered an unlocked front door. The camera was taken from a living room desk.

Marion Kimberly, 33 Southern Way, a teacher at Community Park School, listed the theft of a wallet from her unlocked desk last week in Room 118. Her loss was $9.

BITS DISABLED CAR

Passenger Injured. William B. Turlip, 20, Bridge Point Road, Belle Mead, was charged with careless driving by Ptl. David Funk Sunday evening, after his car struck a disabled car on Route 206 near Arretton Road.

Thomas P. Zapalas, 19, of Skillman, a passenger in the Turlip car, had blood on his face, police said, but refused medical treatment.

Ptl. Funk quoted Mr. Turlip as saying he was going about 50 miles an hour when he saw the disabled car blocking a portion of his lane and a car coming south at the same time. He did not have enough room of time, he said, to avoid a collision.

However, Ptl. Funk reported there were no skid marks and both Geraldine Zerco of Somerville, owner of the disabled car, and another witness said they had not observed any traffic in the opposite lane at the time of the accident.

Rear End Collision. Anita L. Cervantes, 21, of Bard College, Annandale-on-Hudson, was treated at the Medical Center, after her car ran into the rear of another car on Nassau Street at Witherspoon last Wednesday afternoon.

The impact threw Miss Cervantes forward, causing her head to shatter the windshield of the small foreign car she was driving. She was treated for a concussion of the forehead and abrasions of the knee.

She told Ptl. Arthur Jackson that she had been looking in her rear view mirror and did not see the car in front of her stop. She estimated her speed at the time at five miles an hour. Ptl. Jackson ticketed her for careless driving.

Post Office Moves Branch To Ewing Cleaners & Dyers

POST OFFICE: The building on Ewing, near Valley Road, where the post office sub-station will be after July 1.

Princeton's post office sub-station, where you buy stamps and mail Christmas parcels, will be moved July 1 from Center Stationers, in the Princeton Shopping Center, to the small building at 351 Ewing that houses Ewing Cleaners and Dyers.

Mrs. Jessie Gaylord, owner of the building, underbid Center Stationers by $1,000, according to Basil Ferrara, Princeton's postmaster, and thereby got the sub-station. (Mr. Ferrara won't give the exact dollar amount of her bid.)

With her bid, she has also acquired some neighborhood opposition. (See "Mailbox" page 18.)

The area is in a Township Residential zone. About a block away, two doctors want to build two other buildings and the Township Zoning Board will vote next Thursday on their variance request. Neighbors have already vocalized their opposition to the offices.

W. Joseph Shinn, Township zoning officer, suggested Mrs. Gaylord appear before the zoning board in "interpretation" of the law, but so far, she has not decided to do so.

Another viewpoint, not yet questioned by Mr. Ferrara, pointed out that Mrs. Gaylord's business is a non-conforming use, began before the present law, will not change. She will simply add to it the selling of stamps and such.

One truck will come around twice a day, the postmaster explains. No dawn or mid-night trucking will be required.

The law obliges Mr. Ferrara to accept the lowest bidder, however, the postmaster says he would be allowed to suggest other sites.

Mrs. Gaylord's bid is good for one year. In 1974, open bidding will be invited again. A new payment scale, aligned to the business a sub-station does, may be in effect by that time, Mr. Ferrara says.

The sub-station at Center Stationers has done about $150,000 worth of business a year, more than the usual mail box post office, Mr. Ferrara says. He says it isn't true that as many as 300 people a day use the sub-station, as the letter-writer in "Mailbox" estimates.

The new sub-station will have 165 square feet of space, compared to the 140 at the stationery store, and Mr. Ferrara says there will be room for two lines of customers at peak hours, instead of the present single line.

DRUG CHARGES LEVELED

Against Belle Mead Pair. Two residents of Belle Mead have been charged with drug violations by Township police as the result of a routine car check Thursday by Ptl. Mario Musso and Ptl. Peter Savalli.

The officers observed four men sitting in a car parked in the Herrontown Park lot off Herrontown Road. In talking with one of the four, Robert E. Lawrence, 22, of Bellemont Road, Ptl. Musso noticed a pipe lying on the floor of the car. According to the officer, it was still warm and had an odor resembling marijuana. Lawrence was placed under arrest and charged with possession.

Barry C. Engelman, 18, of Line Road, the driver, was also charged with possession of marijuana and heroin after the officers found a cellophane bag in the car's glove compartment. It allegedly contained green vegetable matter and a mail bag of white powder.

Both were later released to await a Township court hearing on Wednesday.

buck, the rural con-man.
To set the mood for "The Rainmaker," the Bucks Playhouse has country and western music played by Kinder Hook Creek half an hour before curtain-time.

FOR CHILDREN

Plays at Bucks County. Ten musicals for children will be presented during the summer season at the Bucks County Playhouse in New Hope. The series will begin June 28 and will continue each Thursday through August 30. Curtain times will be 11:30 a.m. and 2 p.m., and all seats will be $2.50.

The schedule:

"Tom Sawyer," "Young Robinson Crusoe," "Alice Through the Looking Glass," "Little Red Riding Hood," "Cinderella Ever After," "Puss'n Boots," "Connecticut Yankee," "Rumpelstiltskin," "Pied Piper" and "Pinocchio."

Each musical is about one hour long. Singers and actors are from the Fanfare Theatre Ensemble of New York.

MUSIC WORKSHOPS SET

This Summer by Choir College. Beginning June 18, Westminster Choir College will offer "A Summer of Music in Princeton," a six-week series of 31 one- and two-week-long music workshops. The workshops will range in content from vocal camps for high school students to an intense study of Renaissance sacred and secular vocal music.

Complementing the workshops will be a series of evening concerts at the college which will be open to the public: a performance of Renaissance works, conducted by Roger Wagner; a program of Chopin piano works played by Rita Bouboulidi, Westminster's Artist-in-Residence; an organ recital by Joan Lippincott; a concert of handbell music; and harpsichord recitals by Frances Cole, Ralph Kirkpatrick, Sylvia Marlowe, Igor Kipnis, and Blanche Wengron.

In addition, there will be two public performances at the Rider College Theatre of Frank Loesser's Broadway musical "Greenwillow," and single performances of Brahms' "Requiem" and Haydn's "Creation" at the Temple University Music Festival with the Pittsburgh Symphony, Robert Shaw conducting.

These performances will culminate a two-week Workshop for Producing Musicals and Mr. Shaw's two-week Choral Workshop, respectively.

MONTGOMERY

Gone With the Wind. More than three hours of Rhett, Scarlett, Ashley and Melanie, now presented in new Wide Screen and Metrocolor. The passing of more than 30 years has not diminished the allure of GWTW, which remains one of the greatest motion pictures ever made and the winner of ten Academy Awards.

Clark Gable was at the height of his career, and his highly successful portrayal of Rhett Butler clinched his title as Hollywood's "King". Almost as unforgettable are the other stars of this epic film: Vivien Leigh as Scarlett O'Hara, Leslie Howard as Ashley Wilkes and Olivia de Havilland as Melanie Hamilton.

Those who are seeing it again will remember the spectacles: the ball at Tara, Sherman's march to the sea, the flight from Atlanta, the burning of the Atlanta munitions warehouses, the series of the wounded and dying waiting for treatment.

And in these days of X-rated movies, who can forget the moment at the end when Rhett leaves Scarlett with the then snocking language of "Frankly, my dear, I don't give a damn." Movies have come a long way since GWTW, but few have surpassed its excellence.

PRINCE

who are trying to escape the same path.

Joanne Woodward dominates the film with a brilliant performance. It was directed by her husband, Paul Newman. Like his first film, "Rachel, Rachel," also starring his wife, "Marjorie" looks like characters straight in the eye, offering neither sympathy nor distaste and leaving only as much hope at the end as one can reasonably expect.

As a mother who is clearly a mother second and a source of continuing frustration to herself, Miss Woodward is achingly real and surprisingly funny. Without patience to keep anything neat or tidy, her relationships with everyone unkempt, she somehow manages to raise two daughters, one of which is subject to epileptic attacks and nightmares and is traveling the same bitter path her mother took — and knows it. The younger, for lack of affection, has turned to things of the mind and is currently overwhelmed by science. PG

GARDEN

Pat Garrett and Billy the Kid, A furless Western without style, wit or anything to recommend it, directed by Sam Peckinpah. A Peckinpah film means as much violence as is possible to squeeze in and he does not fail in this one, killing off most of the cast.

James Coburn is Sheriff Pat Garrett, who kills the real-life Billy. Kris Kristofferson, the rock singer-composer, is Billy the Kid, while Rita Coolidge, another rock singer, plays Billy's girl.

Still another folk singer idol, Bob Dylan, makes his movie debut and it is far from memorable. Also included are old western favorites Slim Pickens, Chill Wills and Katy Jurado.

Peckinpah's attempts to insert some meaning about attempts to colonize America and those who like Billy, are fighting the fencing in of the West, but it gets lost in the excess violence and sex, and the film soon slips into parody.

PLAYHOUSE

Sleuth (through Thurs.) is a grand, dazzling film version of a grand, dazzling mystery play, acted to the hilt and then some by Laurence Olivier and Michael Caine. Author Anthony Shaffer's clever dialogue and diabolical plotting work even better on the screen.

The story involves a celebrated writer of detective novels, one Andrew Wyke, who invites his wife's lover over to his home to participate in a crime — the theft of his wife's Jewels. The idea is that the cuckolded husband would get the insurance money, and the lover would be able to support the wife with the money acquired from the fence who buys the jewels.

But it turns out that this is not the writer's real idea at all. He's a man with murder in his eye, but he underestimates the resiliency of his wife's lover. It's a deadly contest in which none of those concerned gets what he had expected to get.

A Night in Casablanca and Love Happy (Friday through Tuesday) are two old favorites starring the Marx Brothers. Fun for the entire family.

IT'S NEW To Us

MUSICALLY INCLINED?
Try House of Music. For those with a budding interest in music, or veteran performer, the House of Music in Pennington covers most needs including lessons, instruments, sheet music and repairs.

Lou Cordas, the store's owner, has arrangements with qualified teachers, most of whom have degrees in music, to give lessons to students on many instruments. Currently, the guitar is the most popular, but other instruments such as oboe, violin, and clarinet are available.

The store rents and sells all instruments with the exception of pianos and organs. A guitar would be $15 for three months, and at any point before six months the rental can be applied toward the purchase of the rental guitar or any other model chosen.

The rental guitar costs $38.95, but the House of Music carries guitars as expensive as $150, and there is a wide choice in between.

Echo Chamber. In addition to instruments, microphones, amplifiers and sound equipment are available. There is even an echo chamber, Sireko by Maestro for $289.50. It is adjustable and can be set to repeat sounds a few times, or even forever if that's your choice.

A fascinating item was the Music Minus One long playing records, $6.98. These are stereo recordings of symphonies with one instrument omitted. The album includes the sheet music for the omitted instrument, and you can then play along as a member of an entire orchestra.

There are also two cassettes that can teach you to play the guitar. This is like having a private teacher in your home, and by the end of the second tape there is some complicated playing. $11.95 each.

Sheet music comes for vocal parts and again almost all instruments. The list is too long to list.

included 1776, Applause, Judy Collins, Glen Campbell, Sonny and Cher, Woodstock Two, Country Hits, and Great Songs of the Sixties. House of Music also has lesson books to help you master one of the many instruments they offer.

Repairing instruments is another service offered and the shop has two experts. Lou Cordas, a woodwind specialist, is a graduate of Juilliard on the clarinet. His wife is a professional violinist, and they both are members of the Trenton Symphony Orchestra.

Mr. Cordas teaches music in the Lawrence Township schools and has formed a band composed of 15 intermediate grade children. The Lawrence Stage Band plays locally about once a week and appeared on the Gary Moore Show in January.

The shop is located at 279 Pennington Road, near the circle and is open Monday to Friday from 4 p.m. until 9 p.m. and on Saturdays from 9 until 5.

THORNE'S HAS IDEAS
To Make Traveling Easier. For those off on a trip this summer, Thorne's Pharmacy has many accessories to make traveling easier and more comfortable.

By Going Places there are cosmetic cases in sizes that fit in a purse to a large one that could almost be used for an overnight bag. They come in clear plastic, summer plaids, and Pucci-type prints. Some are fitted with plastic containers, and they range in price from $1.45 to $10.

A Bon Voyage travel kit would be a nice gift for your self or a friend. In a plaid case that zips closed are small foil containers of nail polish remover, shoe shine detergent, spot remover and travel kit. $3.50.

There is also a portable laundry kit that includes a line, clips and soap, great for quick washing and only $1.50.

For the Car. If you'll be driving, Thorne's has two suggestions for the glove compartment. One is a multi-power illuminating magnifier which hardly makes map reading a breeze for most anyone. Then larges and lights the area you're concentrating on, and once the trip is over it can be most helpful for stamps or any other small hobby, $3.98.

Then there is a tuckaway cup which is alcohol and heat resistant. It telescopes up to a large size and has a small covered compartment for sugar or pills, 39 cents.

To keep the ladies cool there are several summer specials. Eau de Toilette in either Miss Dior (roses and sandalwood) or D'Arny (lily of the valley) is $5.50 for a three-ounce bottle; and Ecusson or Casque by Jean D'Albret is $6.50 for a spray falcon and refill of cologne.

Other thoughts are bubble bath by Budding Beauty for the youngest family member, $2.50 or perfumed soap by Roger Gallet in several fragrances, 4 bars for $4.

Thornes has several appliances that would easily fit in a suitcase. There is Purr, the power detangler by Gillette, that promotes healthy hair by preventing split ends, $22.95; the mini-Max hair dryer that has two temperatures and a styling comb, $16.95, and a Stearn Brush by Sunbeam that can whisk away lint and make wrinkles disappear from your favorite jacket, $1.95.

Once at your destination, there are multi-stripe terry cloth slippers in which to rest your feet or wear to the pool, $1.98 and a large selection of swim caps from a plain white, $1.19, to one covered with blue and green daisies, $5.99.

Thorne's Pharmacy, at 168 Nassau Street is open daily all year—weekdays from 9 until 9 and Sundays and holidays from 10 until one and again in the evening from 6 until 9.

FOR FATHER'S DAY

Urken's 114's Suggestions For Father's Day this week and Urken Supply Co. has several nice tool sets. There is a Black and Decker two-speed, 1/2 hp. 1 1/2 ft. $19.98 or a 26-piece 3/8 drill set, $19.99. They also have the S.K. socket wrench set at special discount prices, and you can select whatever and as many sizes as you want.

However, if father loves small tools for those intricate tasks, there is a line of Omega precision made tools. This includes such items as 5 inch needle nose pliers, $2.99; a mini screwdriver set with 11 regular fit and a recessed point, 99 cents, and all-purpose tin snip, for tin plate and wire, $1.79.

Mr. Eugene Urken also suggests garden tools, and a cordless electric grass shears with its own charger by Disston would be a welcome gift. It is $18.98, but even nicer is the same model with a long handle, eliminating all that bending, $26.68.

Then there is a large selection of outdoor grills. We liked a green double hibachi, with wooden handles, $29.95, and a large red covered Weber grill in which an entire meal can be cooked, $59.95. This Weber grill is heavy duty porcelainized steel and will not rust.

Sure-Start Fires. If you already have a grill there are several accessories. Our favorite was a charcoal starter that gives you a quick sure-start fire, $1.59. We also saw a hamburger broiler which holds six hamburgers, and with its long handle they can all be turned at once, $4.19, and a protective cover for that Weber grill, $4.95.

For a picnic or beach party, Urkens has a folding grill by Structo, $6.75. Then to keep the food cool until cooking time, there are insulated picnic bags in stripes, mod prints and blue denim, $5.98. And, to complete that perfect picnic, we added a folding sand chair, $5.98, and some towellettes of 6 1/2 to keep the mosquitoes away, 30 cents.

Urkens has several other thoughts on solving the bug problem at a cookout. The whole area can be sprayed ahead of time with some Ortho Fogger insecticide, $2.98 and then citronella candles can be lit when the guests arrive. These candles not only repel insects, but are attractive, and we particularly liked the tall avocado torches, $5.50.

Urkens, 27 Witherspoon St., is open daily from 8:30 until 5:30, and Friday evenings it remains open until 6.

ROCKY HILL SETS SALE
Of Old Borough Hall. The 19th century building which until February of this year served as the Rocky Hill Borough Hall, and before that was the local jail and before that was a theater known as Voorhees Hall, will be sold July 1. Rocky Hill Borough Council, which now meets in the Board of Education Building on Montgomery Avenue, voted June to accept sealed bids on the structure. The minimum bid was set at $29,000.

Located at the corner of Princeton and Crescent Avenues, one block south of Washington Street, the two-story frame building contains approximately 3,000 square feet. The third floor attic is partly finished. The hall has no plumbing, and the furnace heats only the first floor.

The property includes 12,000 square feet of land, 2,960 square feet of which were donated to the Council by the Rocky Hill Hook and Ladder Company.

Councilwoman Lenore Denzelon will open the building for viewing and answer further questions about it. Her number is 921-8116.

ON THE BLOCK: Sealed bids will be opened July 16 on this 19th century structure at the corner of Princeton and Crescent Avenues in Rocky Hill. Formerly the Rocky Hill Borough Hall, the building also has been used as a jail and theater.

MORE HOUSING DELAY?
HUD May Change Mind. A major environmental study may be made after all for the Township's public housing project on Mt. Lucas Road. Camden officials of the Housing and Urban Development agency said last month, after inspecting the site, that the major study was not required. But Mrs. Karin Slaby, executive director of the Housing Authority of Princeton, has learned that HUD's Washington office may order the study, apparently under pressure from Princeton residents who oppose the project.

Mr. Slaby called Camden to inform HUD that New Jersey has lifted its sewer ban for the public housing project, and during the conversation was informed that Washington might demand the study after all.

In a telephone conversation with HUD in Washington, she reported an official quoted from a letter written by a Princeton opponent. According to Mrs. Slaby, the Princeton letter contained "inaccuracies" about the project, chiefly that it would have "multi-story" buildings. Most units are a single story, with a few two-story, she said.

Borough Mayor Robert W. Cawley says he and others are writing HUD in Washington and Congressman Peter H. B. Frelinghuysen, urging their support of the project.

Mrs. Slaby said this week that she has never received anything in writing from HUD, either announcing the major study or informing her that it has been cancelled.

DONORS REVEALED

Robertson Gave $35 Million. An anonymous endowment of $35 million in 1961 for graduate education at the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs was given by Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Robertson, President William G. Bowen announced this week.

Mr. Robertson, a Princeton graduate of the Class of 1926, and Mrs. Robertson, of Lloyd Harbor, Huntington, Long Island, established the Robertson Foundation for the sole purpose of the development and support of the graduate program of Princeton's Woodrow Wilson School. In deference to the wishes of the donors for privacy, the University and the Foundation agreed that the source of this support would not then be made public.

Mrs. Robertson died on April 19, 1972. Since then, the Foundation and the University, with the consent of Mr. Robertson, decided that in commemoration of her quiet life of public service, the source of the gift would be made known.

CORNER HOUSE APPROVED

As County Participant, Corner House Princeton's drug-abuse program, has been approved by the Mercer County Freeholders and the State Division of Narcotics and Drug Abuse Control for inclusion in the Mercer Regional Drug Treatment Program. Funding, from the National Institute of Mental Health, will allow expansion of Corner House services to include a full day's schedule for young people who need individual and group counseling, educational and enrichment activities and work assignments.

The goals are to help young people develop responsible attitudes, learn to make appropriate decisions about drug use and develop vocational and educational goals. Mrs. Nancy White, director of Corner House, said this will be a carefully controlled program.

402 WILL GRADUATE
From Princeton High. A young minister who was graduated from Princeton High six years ago, will give the Invocation and the Benediction when the 402 members of the Class of 1973 graduate this Thursday from Princeton High School.

The Rev. Keith R. Conover, assistant minister of the Kingston Presbyterian Church, is the PHS alumnus who will offer the traditional prayers. He is a member of the Class of '67.

Graduation, by vote of the graduates, will be held for the second year in a row in the University's Jadwin Gymnasium. Ceremonies will begin at 6:30 p.m.

Eric Laschever, president of the senior class, will give the welcome. The Valedictory Address will be made by Andrew Redfield, and the Salutatorian's Address by Laurel Henschel. They are the two highest ranking students in the class.

Diplomas will be presented by Mrs. Hannah Fox, president of the Princeton Regional School Board, Dr. Philip E. McPherson, Superintendent of Schools, and Dr. Patricia Wertheimer, principal of the high school.

WOMAN IS ASSAULTED

On Chestnut Street, A 20-year-old Borough woman was assaulted Thursday afternoon while she was walking on Chestnut Street near Spruce.

According to police, Karen Kovas, 246 Nassau Street, told them a man passed her, punched her in the mouth and "kissed her out." No money was taken in the assault, police said.

The victim was treated at Princeton Medical Center for abrasions of both lips and loosened teeth. Police said she could give no explanation for the attack.

Youth Is Mugged. Peter Rand, 16, Cranbury Road, West Windsor, told police that he had been jumped and mugged Sunday morning by three boys who knocked him down and took his wallet containing $5 and some change.

He said that the mugging took place on the campus near the University Store. The incident took place at 4:40 a.m.

William Blackburn, 46, has been charged with simple assault and being drunk and disorderly after he allegedly tried to pick a fight with Detective Thomas Michaud Saturday at 11:30 p.m. in the Holder Hall court on campus.

Blackburn told police that he lived at the Princeton YMCA. He faces a hearing in Borough Court on Wednesday.

TWO JUVENILES CHARGED

In Separate Incidents, The Township juvenile officer has brought charges against two juveniles.

A 13-year-old Borough youth was charged with shoplifting a shirt and a pair of shorts with a combined value of $17.55 from Bamberger's, after he was apprehended by Mrs. Constance Ware of the store's security department.

He was later released to his parents, pending action by a juvenile court.

A 16-year-old Lawrenceville

Pools, Weather & Money

One of the few agencies not complaining about the torrid weekend weather is the Princeton Recreation Department, which collected a record $1,413 in admission fees to the Community Park pool complex on Saturday and Sunday.

"It's the first time we have ever gone over $1,400," reported pool manager Jack Roberts. The previous high was $1,350 last July 15-16. The pools are starting their seventh year of operation.

In addition, Mr. Roberts, assistant recreation director, reported that the recreation department also collected a whopping $4,500 in season permit fees over the weekend. In comparison, pool proceeds for the three-day Memorial Day weekend (it was cold and rainy all three days) was $30.50.

boy was given three motor vehicle charges after his car was stopped last week at 1:50 in the morning by Ptl. Jerry Offredo on Snowden Lane.

He was accused of having no license in possession, driving an unregistered car and using fictitious plates. He was released, pending action by a juvenile court. Police said the youth had purchased the car but had no registration or license plates.

SAYEN GOP CHOICE

Continues as County Chairman. Gov. William Cahill has so far failed to indicate support for Charles Sandman, Jr., who defeated him in the June primaries, but W. Harry Sayen, a Liberal Republican like the Governor, says he can back the party's ticket.

The Mercer County Republican Committee returned Mr. Sayen to the position of its chairman Tuesday night by a margin of slightly less than 3 to 1. When Gov. Cahill's defeat was known on the night of June 5, there had been a question as to Mr. Sayen's alignment behind the arch-conservative, Congressman Sandman.

Mr. Sayen, whose home is on Edgerstone Road, said he would not seek re-nomination, but would be receptive to a draft. That developed when he was re-elected, 178 to 73, over Lester H. Allen, the Trenton businessman who had run a losing primary campaign in Mercer County for Mr. Sandman.

FIVE ARE FINED

For Stop-Sign Violations. Five Princeton area residents were fined for stop sign violations last week in Township Court by Judge Theodore T. Tams Jr., who was conducting his last traffic court in Princeton. He will be seated this summer on the bench of the Superior Court in Mercer County.

The defendants were Matilda J. Thiel, 80, 529 Alexander Road; Rosemary L. Rutherford, 36, Honey Brook Lane; Mary C. Murray, 12 Park Avenue; Pennington; Peter L. Bonnette, 17, 59 Meadow Brook Drive, all of whom were fined $15, and Kathleen Y. Lucia, 18, of Skillman, who paid $25.

Three were fined $15 each for careless driving: Donald D. Sutherland, 18, 180 Laurel Circle; Carmela Mauro, 23, 45 Hillside Road; and Nathan Robertson, 18, 32 Witherspoon Lane. Speeding cost Sergio Bonadio, 47, 24 Bayard Lane, $25.

Poor Postal Planning

To the Editor of Town Topics:

The postal sub-station located at the Princeton Shopping Center in the stationers, will be relocated on Ewing Street, between Valley Road and Guyot Avenue as of July 1. The low bidder was the dry cleaning shop on Ewing Street. They exist there as a prior non-conforming use in a residential (R-6) zone. There are now two off-street parking places there; no curbs or sidewalks exist and the present sub-station at the center averages 250-300 patrons per day.

In all its infinite wisdom, the postal authorities once again illustrate their lack of concern for patrons and for the residents who live on Ewing Street. The postmaster has said that the parking problem will not be, since patrons can use the Shopping Center parking area and walk across North Harrison, through the empty lots or can park in the Witherspoon School parking lot and in both cases hike to the dry cleaners-postal sub-station. What happens when both areas are filled (as the school parking is during school) is left to your imagination.

J. J. Doherty, Regional Director, Post Office Dept., Philadelphia; Regional Office, G. P. O. Bldg., Philadelphia, the Princeton postmaster, Basil J. Ferrara, and your Congressman would no doubt enjoy your comments.

Directly across from this sub-station on Ewing Street, now being proposed is the 16-office professional complex that borders Ewing Street and corners Valley Road and North Harrison Street (a reverse L-shaped section) with a potential of several hundred patients or people each day. This is also in the same residential zone which is zoned for one family residences. The Township Zoning Board of Adjustment meets Thursday, June 21, concerning this.

Princeton Township residents who are not contented with the problems that all of this traffic, water runoff problems, postal service inconvenience and incursion into residential area will bring upon this area should ignore this information. Certainly, it will be too late to do anything about it once it all comes to be.

Hospital Expansion Opposed,

To the Editor of Town Topics:

For some time we have all heard that the Hospital was planning to expand horizontally into some of the residential areas adjoining its present property. It all seemed very vague until recently.

Now comes word that the Hospital has already bought some of the houses on Henry Avenue, between Witherspoon Street and Harris Road, and is attempting to buy on Stillmore. The object being to have enough land area available north of the Hospital to put up a parking garage.

My own opinion is that this is the result of either one of two situations. Either the Hospital Trustees don't know how desperately short this town is of modest residential housing, or they don't care.

In the first case, that sort of ignorance of the socio-economic condition of their community would mean an appalling blind spot in what otherwise are people dedicated to community service. In the second case—and I hope this is not the case—it would reflect an arrogant disregard of the well-being of their immediate neighbors, many of whom are not too well prepared to fight effectively to protect their homes and neighborhood against the money and prestige of their big and growing medical neighbor.

There is plenty of acreage at the Hospital's Franklin Avenue parking lot over which to put a parking garage. A garage at that site would not take away any of the area's homes, and it would be so screened that it would not even give a "Chinese Wall" effect to the residences whose rear it would face.

I do hope enough citizens will voice their concern over this matter to dissuade the Hospital from its present plans.

Rent Increase Frightening.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

A great many tenants of my acquaintance including myself will be paying a rent increase of 8 percent starting this September. Some people are quite terrified they do not know when it will stop.

The best tenants, that is the most stable, those who pay on time, who stay on from year to year, who take pride in their homes and have respect for the landlord's property, often really improving it, who make few demands in appreciation of a fair rent—these tenants are apt to be people of moderate or fixed income, who will be unable to pay escalating rents and must find an alternative.

They must double up with others, move in with family, rent private rooms with kitchen privileges and so forth. I am sure they will move out of Princeton, much as they love it.

Will the landlord really be better off in the long run, getting desperate people, who must find a home, who could not care less about considering care of these temporary quarters, who had they are paying too much and rent it bitterly.

They won't stay and who can blame them? And changing tenants isn't good for a house or for a landlord's pocketbook and peace of mind.

A few words in consideration of the landlord (I have been one myself many times in past years). He certainly should make a fair return on his property. I know the Housing Advisory Council, taking into account his taxes and maintenance cost, can determine this.

I trust too that they will publicize just how they arrive at a just figure. I am sure it can all be reduced to black and white by expert people, for all to see, and then if the percentage profit they reap is just, no one can object. But let us be assured that it is just.

Many fortunes have been made in the past by gouging the poor, especially in New York City, here some of the esteemed (?) names in our country began as slum landlords. The names change but merican Red Cross is seeking youths as summer volunteers for all of its various programs, but special emphasis is being put this year on career exploration.

Future doctors, nurses, teachers, and secretaries are invited to discover just what is involved in the careers they have chosen, by becoming a part of one or more of the many programs offered by the Chapter.

Future teachers of special education will get first hand experience of this work by their participation in the programs at the Mercer County Center for Retarded Children, the Lawrence Township Special Education Program at Slackwood School, and the Mercer County Day Camp. Further insight into the teaching profession may be gained through work at the public parks throughout Princeton, as well as work in area Day Care Centers.

Those thinking of becoming nurses or doctors are invited to see the professionals "in action" at area nursing homes where they will be trained to work as junior hospital volunteers. Students are also needed to work at the Chapter House, to answer phones, and to help with the clerical work that is a large part of running any office.

Although career exploration is the theme of this year's recruitment drive, the Youth of the Chapter feel that even those youth volunteers who have not chosen a career will gain much from this summer experience since skills learned now will probably be useful in future work.

All Red Cross Youth volunteers are fully trained for the work that they will do at no cost to the volunteers. Volunteer schedules are prepared with the convenience of the volunteers, as well as the need of the institution in which they will work, in mind.

Those interested are asked to contact our Youth Director, MaryAnn Fazio, at the Red Cross Chapter House, 182 No. Harrison Street, Princeton, 921-3401, any weekday between 1 and 4:30.

MaryAnn Fazio has joined the staff of the Princeton Chapter and is now serving as Director of Red Cross Youth. She has replaced Sally Graden who will enter graduate school.

Ms. Fazio comes to Princeton Red Cross with outstanding background and experience for she has served as Director of Red Cross Youth for the Plainfield Area Red Cross for the past three years. In this capacity she developed and implemented programs both within the Red Cross and in conjunction with the schools and other community agencies, that involved over 300 young people aged 10-18.

The Day Camp, for girls Kindergarten through 6th grade will be held at the 22-acre Headquarters Farm in Sergeantsville. Daily transportation from and back to the Princeton Y will be provided. The Half-Day Camp for 4 and 5 year old girls will be at the Y Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday mornings.

The Gymnastics Camp, for 6 to 17 year olds, will be on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays 9 to 3. Four full time and several guest instructors will conduct the program. The Action in Nature Camp will take campers on five different outings to national parks and forests in New Jersey and neighboring states.

Full details about the summer program are available at the YWCA office.

Baking Bread Is Frank Clark's Staff of Life

"What do you do with all that bread you bake?"

The floured hands pause in their folding and kneading. "Why, I give most of it away," surprised that the question was even asked.

For more than a quarter of a century — in Princeton, at least — Frank Clark has been baking and giving bread. Because of his long commitment to the Young Men's Christian Association, and his identity with the highest kind of dedication to youth and to ideals, the temptation is strong to say that he has been casting bread upon the waters.

In any case, he has certainly been baking it. He uses 100-500 pounds of flour a year ("I'd use more if I had a place to store it") and frequently mixes his dough in a horse feeding bin because "he can get 14 loaves out of it."

Frank Clark is general secretary of the Princeton YMCA. Until two years ago, he was also head of the Mercer County YMCA, and he has been associated with Y's here in town for more than 25 years.

He's been baking bread since well, his mother showed him how when he was in high school. He worked his way through college as a short-order cook, did the 5:30 a.m. shift in a dining hall as a graduate student. Whenever he went to a "Y" or a youth conference of some kind, he would make his way back to the hotel kitchen and talk to the chef and the baker. "They tell you their secrets because they're proud of their knowledge and skill."

"I've been experimenting with sour dough for about eight months. I made a sour dough chocolate cake, very light in texture. But the best, is my sour dough pancakes. Freeze 'em, then treat 'em like English muffins. I put some huckleberries in mine, picked and froze 'em last year."

Two 19th-century crocks of sour dough "starter" stand on the counter of the sunny country kitchen. One is four months old, the other nine. Both have the characteristic piercing sour "burn" — to the nostrils.

Skillet bread is just that.

BREAD MAN: "When I'm so tired I can hardly breathe, I bake bread — maybe after midnight, sometimes, and right away, I lose my fatigue." Frank Clark, vintage bread-baker, is shown here with a 19th-century churn, making his own butter.

Cook Book from 1910. "No yeast in the . . . he explains. "I use evaporated milk. Let it stand for 24 hours. Then I add flour and leave it four or five days until it sours. The Alaska soapberry and old time yeast — just used flour and water. I've got a 1910 'Camp Cookers' book that has only flour and water as a starter."

With the starter, you start to bake bread. But the starter gets a crust in time, and you have to replenish the crock with as much as you took out — maybe several cups.

While the sour dough cinnamon rolls are building, their fat currants and nuts folded snug into the spiral, ready for a dip into the bowl of melted butter and olive oil before a heading down in the pan, Frank Clark is doing two other things.

He is churning butter in a modern — well, more modern than some 19th-century glass churn (see photo) and he is watching the bowl of Nova Scotia bread rising on the stove, next to the warm electric wall oven.

Staples. Although home-churned butter is not uncommon in a Clark bread, not all batches are made with it and the cinnamon rolls were dipped in store-bought butter. But sometimes...

Frank Clark buys stone-ground flour in Quakertown, Pennsylvania, and uses regular super market dry yeast. He prefers it to the wet yeast in cakes because he thinks it's faster.

"Sometimes I add brewer's yeast, wheat germ. But you shouldn't run down super market white bread the way people do now; it does have all the needed vitamins and minerals added, and that's very important for the poorer families who can't afford anything else."

"Ever try to make all-rye bread? Almost impossible to get it to rise, the grain is so heavy. You've got to mix it with white flour. I had a friend in Mexico and she had 100 lbs. of pure rye flour. Well, we took her some white flour, and by experimenting — and at a high altitude, too, which made it even harder! — I got a good rye bread."

Name Tag Frank Clark uses a warm loaf of home-made bread the way some people use a calling card. That's how he met Albert Einstein, stopping at the famous Mercer Street house to leave an introductory loaf of bread.

Dr. Einstein liked egg bread either whole wheat or white. On one occasion, he pressed Frank closely to find out whether he used exact measurements. Well, yes, generally speaking, but the baker had to confess that sometimes he threw out what he had made, because he couldn't always tell what would happen.

"Other scientists were after Einstein at that time, and he nodded 'yes, he knew how it was — you never could tell what would happen!'"

Once, on Einstein's birthday (it proved to be the day before his death), Frank Clark pulled his jeep before the door to make his bread delivery. Cameras, trucks, and reporters were thick around the house. When the reporters and cameramen saw Frank Clark go right up to the door and into the house, they were curious and envious, and they noted him when he came out.

"I told them I was Dr. Einstein's personal baker, and the next day the New York Times said only Einstein's personal baker and the Western Union man were allowed inside. I figured at that moment I didn't happen to be the YMCA secretary!"

Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer

was another Clark bread devotee, and through him and Dr. Einstein, various Institute for Advanced Study scholars have tasted Clark loaves. Today, special loaves go to a man who can't have either salt or sugar in his bread, to the YMCA antiques show ("baked 45 loaves for that show and 18 dozen cinnamon rolls.") Surplus bread is stored in one of three freezers in the Clarks' rural Cleveland Road home. But it doesn't stay there long — the world is full of people to give to.

PEOPLE In The News

Miss Michele Tinnon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin M. Tinnon, 46 Terhune Road, has been named to the Dean's List at Randolph Macon Woman's College, Lynchburg, Virginia. She was selected for her outstanding academic work during the second semester of her junior year.

Sandra F. McCrevey, 72 Doran Avenue, has been named Associate Dean of the Faculty at Mercer County Community College. She has been Chairman of the Department of Social Science since 1970.

Six members of the Princeton University faculty, whose combined years of service to Princeton total 145, have reached the mandatory retirement age of 68, and were saluted at the University's commencement Tuesday as they entered the ranks of Professors Emeriti. In order of seniority, they are:

Joseph R. Strayer, 57, Ballston Lane, Dayton - Stockton Professor of History and Professor of International Affairs, retiring after 43 years — a length of service that made him the senior member of the University faculty. An expert on Medieval history and English constitutional history, Professor Strayer chaired the history department from 1941 to 1964. He was a member of Borough Council from 1964 to 1967.

Carl Weinrich, Mercer Road, Professor of Music and Director of Music in the University Chapel, retiring after 30 years. After 15 years at Princeton he was relieved of all teaching duties so he could devote full time to playing and recording and conducting the University Choir. He has been acclaimed by critics for advances in recording the organ works of Johann S. Bach.

Wesley Frank Craven, 361 Scott Lane, George Henry Davis Professor of American History, retiring after 23 years. A specialist in the broad general phases of American history, especially in the 17th century and in the origins of the United States, Professor Craven has written extensively in his specialty and has served on the editorial boards of several scholarly journals.

Arthur Mendel, 232 Bayard Lane, Henry Putnam University Professor of Music, retiring after 31 years. A world authority on the works of Bach and a highly regarded editor and translator, Professor Mendel was chairman of his department from 1952 to 1967. His chairmanship was marked by the establishment of new Ph.D. programs and the planning and completion of the Woodworth Center for Musical Studies.

Miss Charlotte Glinka, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Glinka, 293 Walnut Lane, qualified for the dean's list at Centenary College for Women at the end of the second semester.

Miss Glinka is a member of the class of 1974.

Nancy Wright, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Robert J. Wright, 4 Hawthorne Ave., was ordained into the United Church of Christ at a service last month in Christ Chapel, Riverside Church, New York City.

Rev. Wright is a graduate of Barnard College and received her Master of Divinity degree from Union Theological Seminary on May 15. While at Union, she majored in psychiatry and religion, served as floor chaplain at the Columbia Presbyterian Hospital, and as a case worker in two West Side welfare hotels.

She plans to be engaged in an ecclesiastical ministry to the elderly, sponsored by three churches in New York's upper West Side.

Carl G. Hempel, 172 Prospect Avenue, Stuart, Professor of Philosophy, retiring after 18 years. One of the nation's leading scholars in the philosophy of science whose special interests are the scientific and logical aspects of philosophy relating the subject to mathematics and the natural sciences, Professor Hempel was called to Princeton from Yale. He has held Guggenheim and Fulbright senior research fellowships at Oxford, a lectureship at the Hebrew University, Jerusalem, and appointments at the Center for Advanced Study in the Behavioral Sciences, Stanford, Calif.

Ivory Dilhard, 407 Crestwood Drive, Collinsville, Ill., Fern Professor of Journalism and Public Relations, retiring after 10 years. A career newspaperman with the St. Louis Post-Dispatch for more than 30 years, including 12 years as editor of its editorial page, Prof. Dilhard has taught in English, politics and Civic Windrow Wilam School. He has won student acclaim for his course in "expository writing" and the Class of 1971 made him an honorary member. He has been appointed to the 15 member National News Council, formed to represent the public before the news media.

Steven J. Bash, 7 Chopin Lane, Lawrenceville, has been awarded a letter at Bowdoin College. He is a member of the school's varsity tennis team.

Ivory Jackson Jr. has received the yearbook award in Outstanding Photo Edition of College Voice, the Mercer Community College student newspaper. A graduate of Princeton High School, Mr. Jackson plans to continue as a photographer after he graduates on Friday. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ivory Jackson Sr., Dublin Road, Pennington.

Gail Zachariasz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Zachariasz, 41 Henry Avenue, a junior at Princeton High School, has been named a recipient of the Rensselaer Medal, an award given by the Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute in recognition of outstanding achievement in mathematics and science. By winning the medal, Miss Zachariasz is entitled to compete for the Rensselaer Medal Scholarship at RPI.

ART In Princeton

LATE SPRING SCENE
At Firestone Library. During an era when we fear for survival because of political corruption, over-population, widespread intemperance and pollution of our environment by a thoughtless population, it is of great comfort to look back to the previous century and find that even in a time which we now consider with nostalgia, the identical problems were of great concern

FROM THE CARTOONS OF GEORGE CRUIKSHANK: "The Bottle is brought out for the first time," says the caption on this drawing by "the conscience of the American 19th century," adding ominously, "The husband induces his wife, 'just take a drop.'" From the exhibit now at Firestone Library.

— and yet we have survived. George Cruikshank was both a diarist and conscience of his era. In his political cartoons, illustrations for journals, and, in many of his book plates as well as publications for journals he both illustrated and conceived, he depicted the major and minor weaknesses of his time.

His subject-matter ranged from intimate and personal activities such as courtship, dinner parties and entertainments to the political arena, the military, and any other custom or activity of his day. The skillful barbs are witty, profound and very fine art.

The major portion of his career was spent as an illustrator. The original volumes in which his work appeared, as well as sketches and relevant correspondence, are displayed.

Many of the Dickens and Ainsworth books are included. Hundreds of letters, books, periodicals and plates illustrated by this prolific artist reveal the man and his times.

It is possible, in viewing this well displayed exhibition, to be entertained by the very sharp, often severe and consistently clever works of Cruikshank and at the same time admire the fine graphic art.

The exhibition will be displayed through September. Walking tours can be arranged by calling 452-3184.

At Gallery 100. In contemporary graphics, the artist's relationship with his particular medium is as important as skill and creative ability. Specific graphic media demand particular responses and often the artist will choose the material which helps to reinforce a particular visual point of view.

The contrasts between the different graphic forms of expression are well displayed at Gallery 100. Ann Woolfolk and Susan Hockaday both express themselves through print. They have chosen different media and have remained true to the artistic demands of their materials.

Intaglio printing is remarkable for tonal effects through aquatint, line and the textural effects of raised surfaces. The face of the metal plate and the artist's sensual reaction to inking efforts and color relationships often determine the impact of the print.

Susan Hockaday examines nature forms, pattern and spatial combinations. With fine control over the technical nuances of her medium and good color effects, she assembles an interesting and attractive display of this print medium.

Silk screen is most often used to combine flat forms. Although textural and tonal effects are possible, color and silhouette are the determining factors.

Ann Woolfolk has artfully combined soft and strong color and made good use of transparent tones. Spatial relationships are well established in the more lifeal works, as well as those that are dependent upon design.

At The Artisan. Stoneware with a regional point of view is featured at the Artisan. Jean Einbeck Vogrin, a New Jersey potter, uses nature forms from her native Pine Barrens as motifs for her work.

All manner of functional pottery, such as cups, bowls and platters, are covered with local flora and fauna created by relief shapes and glazing effects. The natural qualities and the tonal ranges of the materials are retained, creating a subtle, earthy effect.

At Gallery of Fine Art, An unusual collection of works by Roosevelt artist Jacob Landau presents a somewhat different view of this painter and printmaker. Sketches and studies for finished works as well as a few remaining prints from early editions make up the main body of the collection.

Also included are drawings and watercolors, many of them political in content. The great power and exciting line that we are familiar with is present in all the work, no matter which period of Landau's work is represented.

AC Galleries, Kingston. Printmaker Peter Vince uses the woodcut as an expressive medium. He has created attractive, effective prints through dynamic line and tonal effects that are the results of a combination of his mastery over the printmaker's difficult craft and a sensitivity to form and subject.

A few drawings and wood engravings are also included and display the same feeling and skill as the woodcut. Using only black and white in most of the work, Vince has created rich tonal combinations that give the prints and drawings great depth and richness.

University Art Museum. Two Senior Exhibits, "Seventeenth Century Landscapes" and "Problems of Authenticity in Nineteenth and Twentieth Century Art" are part of the summer displays. The landscape exhibit includes Italian, Flemish and Dutch paintings, drawings and prints involving interesting comparison of subject and style between the many works on display.

The exhibit dealing with problems in authenticity provides some interesting artistic situations, including outright forgeries as well as imitative works by lesser painters. Aside from problems in scholarship and authentication, it is also a method of examination and valuable playing collection of art.

WOOD CUTS ON DISPLAY

At Art Confederation Gallery, The Art Confederation Gallery in Kingston is showing wood cuts in stark black and white by Peter Vince through the end of this month.

Mr. Vince was born in Rugby, England in 1941 and received his education at Birmingham University and Putney Art College of London. He has shown his work at Regent Gallery in Rugby and Summing Gallery in Reading, England.

Since moving to Roosevelt, New Jersey in 1970, he has exhibited in the Roosevelt Artist Show at Old Mill Gallery, Clinton, in the Monmouth County Art Show, and in other shows in Roosevelt.

Also shown will be abstract watercolors by the Lithuanian Canadian artist, Irene Morkunas, and paintings by Maxine Cannon of Mallorca, Spain.

The Art Confederation Gallery is located in the courtyard at Owen's Bar, 77 Main Street, Kingston, and is open 15 Tuesday-Saturday.

Do you know why the "bull pen" in a baseball park is called a bullpen? In the old days, the Bull Durham Tobacco Co., put their advertising signs on the fences in many, many ball parks around the country and a lot of their signs were located in the area of the park where relief pitchers warmed up. That area began to be called the "bullpen," and it's been that ever since.

Believe it or not, a complete 9-inning big league baseball game was once played in 51 minutes! It was a game between the Giants and Phils in 1919.

Here's a baseball record that just doesn't seem possible, but it's true. The entire Chicago White Sox team of 1908 hit only three home runs ALL SEASON! Just think, there have been times in baseball history when one player hit three home runs in one game—but imagine, here's a whole team that totaled only three homers all year. It's hard to believe, but it happened.

I bet you didn't know that young couples should have our excess major medical insurance. If a child comes down with rheumatic fever, it can devastate the family's income forever. Here's the premium for a couple age thirty with two children—$88.35.

SOUTH, IN OVERTIME
Takes All-Star Lacrosse Game, Overcoming a five goal

lead, the South All-Star Lacrosse Team defeated the North in Palmer Stadium Saturday. In double overtime, it was a 14-12 final.

Some 4,200 spectators watched the annual event, staged here in conjunction with Princeton University reunions. It will not, however, become an annual affair here, as policy calls for rotating the game among a dozen sites along the eastern seaboard.

The North opened action so quickly that it threatened to make a rout of the contest, moving out to a five-goal advantage by the end of the first period. Then Virginia's All-American, Tom Duquette, took charge, hitting on three consecutive unassisted goals.

Shortly after the intermission, Duquette brought the South even at 7-all, and less than 60 seconds later, passed to Bob Shryven of Washington and Lee, who gave the south-erners their first lead at 8-7. With Duquette resting a muscle pull in the fourth quarter, the North drew even at 11-all to send the game into overtime, but the South had the staying power, scoring three times in the two four-minute extra sessions to once for the losers.

Golf Tournament June 20

The annual Mercer County Men's Championship Golf Tournament sponsored by the Mercer County Park Commission will be held on Wednesday, June 20, at the Mountain View Golf Course.

Registration for the tournament will continue through 7 p.m. on Tuesday, June 19. Skip Ferrara, pro at Mountain View, is in charge of the registration program. Starting times for tournament play will be from 8 a.m. until 1:30 p.m. Positively no post entries will be accepted.

Last year's defending champion is Rick Ferman from Hamilton Township. Around 170 participated in the 1972 competition.

athlete by Princeton University.

The Senior Sportsman Award, a parallel to the Roper Trophy, has been presented to Marjorie Gengler of Locust Valley, N.Y., undefeated in three seasons of tennis play in Princeton. The prizes were announced Monday at the annual Class Day Exercises by Dean of Student Affairs Adele Simmons.

Barisch, a draft selection of the Cleveland Browns who became the first Princetonian in 21 years to play in a post-season football game when he joined the North squad for last December's Shrine Game in Miami, overcame a knee injury which sidelined him for his entire junior year to become one of the nation's top defensive linemen as a senior. The 6-4, 250-pound alumnus of Bergen Catholic High School was a unanimous All-Ivy pick by the League's coaches and an All-East choice of both the Associated Press and the Eastern College Athletic Conference.

Anchoring a rushing defense which ranked first among the Ivies, Barisch led the team in unassisted tackles with 58, in assists with 28 and in penetrations with 19. A three-time letterwinner in track and field.

he currently holds the Princeton records in both the shot and the discus.

Gengler, who paced Princeton women's teams to undefeated records and to first place in both the Eastern Intercollegiate and the Middle Atlantic Intercollegiate, is presently the top-ranked woman in the Eastern Lawn Tennis Association in both singles and doubles. In the latter phase, she teams with her sister, Louise; the pair is ranked seventh nationally by the U.S. Lawn Tennis Association.

The Nassau senior has played on the Junior Wightman Cup team and has competed at Wimbledon against such established stars as Billie Jean King, Margaret Court and Yvonne Goolagong.

WILL'S SHELL ON TOP
In W. Windsor Baseball, Will's Shell won three straight games last week, including a no-hit, no-run victory, to go a half game up on Lucar Harbort for the lead in the West Windsor Babe Ruth Baseball League. Both teams are undefeated.

Rick Malarea pitched the no hitter against Harbort as Scott Siddal breezed to an 8-0 victory. Paring Will's attack were Ken Brzezynski with a double and two singles and Tom Murphy with two singles.

Earlier in the week, Darryl MacPherson pitched a one-hitter for Will's in a 1-0 win over the Lions. Brzezynski led the hitting with a double and a single, while Mike Scull also blasted a double.

Will's third win was a 16-3 victory over Harbort as Scott Siddal pitched a steady four hitter. MacPherson and Murphy led the Will's hitting with two singles apiece.

Meanwhile, Lucar remained

Dave Howard was the winning pitcher as Bill Schroeder led the Lucar attack with a double and two singles, and Scott Kelly added a double. Scott McGonigle hit three singles and Carl Maze and pitcher Ted Servis both hit doubles for the Lions.

The Lions came back in the final game of the week to score their first victory, a 9-6 decision over Harbort. Pitcher Roy Hadden picked up the win, with one inning of relief by Scott Chambers.

Bob Siddal led the Lions hitting with two singles, with Carl Maze, Mark Wascoe and Chambers adding singles. David Duncan, Yuri Tullis, David Layton and Bob Dalton hit singles for Harbort.

FOUR TEAMS TO PLAY

In Babe Ruth Baseball Here. The 13-15-year old summer baseball program directed by the Princeton Youth Baseball Association will begin its fourth season next Wednesday, June 20. This year, for the first time, the league will be affiliated with the National Babe Ruth Baseball Association.

The defending champion, Patrolmen's Benevolent Association, coached by Jim Kahny, is favored to repeat, though it may not dominate the league. Last year's third and fourth place teams have both been strengthened. They are New York Life, coached by Bob Bruschi, and Thorne's Pharmacy, coached by Joe Opperman.

The fourth team is Princeton Bank and Trust, coached by Gil Spencer. It finished second last year, won the championship in 1971, but is considered a long shot this summer.

The season will consist of bi-weekly doubleheaders on Monday and Wednesday nights, with one game at Strubing Field on Fitz Randolph Road and the other at Princeton High School. Each team will play

TRACK MEET DOMINATED
By Princeton Recreation Team. The Princeton Recreation Department's Junior Olympic Track Team capped a standout performance last week in Elizabeth as all but one of its members finished either first or second.

Michelle Broadway raised her gold medal total to five in two years as she again finished first in the mid-50 and 100 yard dashes. Sally McEwen placed first and second respectively in the same races in the junior division.

Displaying flawless baton passing, the girls' baton relay team of Susie Haynes, Julie Samaroo, Tracy Kuhn and Jane Opperman, won the 440 relay. The boys' baton and girls' junior relay teams finished in second place.

Susie Haynes captured the 50 yard dash baton championship, while brother Billy placed second in the mid-50 yard dash. Jan. Bittrock ran a strong second in the baton 100 dash.

Ken Wilkerson battered numerous best distances to earn second place in the mid-50 but event Jon M. for was the lone performer who failed to place, coming in last two feet further than he ever had before in the long jump.

By Princeton Swim Program. The new Competitive Swim Program at Community Pool is designed to reach many talents and goals this summer.

Not only has the high-level AAU program been expanded but a dual meet team will also be organized. The latter will represent Princeton Community Pool in the Princeton Area Swimming and Diving Association League.

Swimmers who are looking for recreational, low-level competition may join the dual meet team for $15. Membership will be restricted to Princeton residents or season permit holders. The team will compete against similar age groups from other pools in the area.

It is not necessary for a swimmer to join the AAU aspect of the Princeton Swim Association. Those who participate may swim unattached or merely work out with the program. The program costs $25 per month for residents and $35 per month for non-residents. The fee for additional children in the family will be $12.50 per month.

Anyone interested in sampling this program may do so for the remainder of the week. The Association is meeting at 4:30 for workouts at the Community Pool.

Those interested in the low-level dual meet team should be at poolside next Monday, June 18, at 8:30 a.m. Additional information on either program is available from the Princeton Recreation Department, 921-9480.

For PYBA Little League The eight teams of the Princeton Youth Baseball Association's Little League began a seven-week, 14-game schedule on Monday.

Teams are Roma Eterna, the defending champion, Knickerbocker 1 and 2, Hook and Ladder, American Legion Post 66, Eagles, Elks and Italian American Sportsmen Club. All games will be played Monday through Thursday at the former PCD fields on Western Way. Some 160 boys between 9 and 12 are participating.

In opening games Monday, Roma Eterna began defense of its crown in solid fashion by blanking IASC, 9-0. Winning pitcher John Rosenthal completed for a home run.

In the second game, Post 70 trounced Engine No. 1, 17-1, behind the out-lit pitching of Woody Clark.

In opening day ceremonies, league president Dean Chace presented trophies to four members who graduated from last year's championship Roma Eterna squad. He and league commissioner Jack Peirone then threw out the first balls to start the season's first two games.

SANNINO'S REBOUNDS

In Softball League, following its opening game loss to Ivy Inn, Sannino's rebounded with an 8-0 victory over Center Sports last Wednesday at Community Park behind the strong pitching performance by Tom Brophy. Sannino's scored in five of seven innings. Andy's Tavern also evened its record with a 3-2 victory over Sports in Things. Bobby Pardan of Andy's batted 3 for 3, one of his hits driving in the winning runs in the sixth inning.

Frank Cawley of Conte-Stats pitched his second consecutive shutout as C.S. defeated Huds, 5-0. Billy Staats connected for three safeties to lead the victor's hitting attack. In two games, Cawley has allowed only eight hits.

In the evening's fourth game, Ivy Inn stopped the Italian-American Sportsmen's Club, 7-2 with a six-run fifth inning. Consecutive hits by Buddy Britton, Jim Case, Tony Perrone, Doug Watson, Bucky Boccanfuso and Rich Volz erased a 2-1 PIASC lead. Watson and Boccanfuso both had perfect nights at bat for the Big Green.

McGraw-Hill, ON TOP

In Business Softball League, With the Princeton Business Softball League nearing the halfway point in its season, the perennial powerhouse teams have found their way to the top of the 15 team league, and don't appear ready to be bumped out by any of the newer entries.

McGraw-Hill, which always sets a torrid pace in the regular season, before running into problems in the playoffs, is out in front with a perfect 6-0 mark. Forrestal is in second place a game behind at 5-1.

ETS, the defending champion two years running and the first team to win the TOWN TOPICS trophy three times thus retreating it, is tied for third with Citex Service and FMC at 4-1.

All teams will play each other once, and have one bye during the season. The two division set up has been consolidated into a single one this year. Joe Castoro of Hopewell TV has donated a new trophy to replace the one retired by ETS.
